WELCOME TO GUNTERSVILLE

A Message from Mayor Leigh Dollar

On behalf of the City of Guntersville and the Lake Guntersville Chamber of Commerce, I would like to invite you to visit and experience our wonderful community!

Our beautiful lake city is located on the southernmost point of the Tennessee River and surrounded by 69,000 acres of water. Lake Guntersville offers excellent spots for leisure activities such as fishing, swimming, boating, and all water sports, not to mention having the most beautiful mountain-lake sunsets you will find anywhere!

Whether you are a current resident, a traveler, or looking to relocate your family or business, Guntersville offers the amenities of a larger city with the friendliness and charm of a small town. We take pride in being a warm and inviting community with an excellent quality of life, superb schools, a thriving arts community, numerous recreational opportunities, beautiful neighborhoods, and enjoyable shopping and dining experiences.

Come experience Guntersville and “Make Yourself at Home”. Find out for yourself why Guntersville was chosen by Southern Living in their list of “Top 10 Best Small Towns in Alabama” and “The South’s Best Lake Towns” as well as Field and Stream’s “Number 2 Best Town for Bass Fishing in the U.S.”. The list goes on. We invite you to come and stay!

Sincerely,

Leigh Dollar
Mayor, City of Guntersville

Tourism & Leisure

The Lake Guntersville area is blessed with an abundance of recreational opportunities and activities, whether on the lake (skiing, boating, and fishing) or land (hiking, biking, birding, disc golfing, or strolling on a walking trail).

Guntersville offers visitors various lodging opportunities including lakeside vacation homes, comfy hotel rooms, secluded cabins nestled in the mountains, roomy condos, and fun campsites along the water. For a complete listing of lodging and recreational opportunities, visit lakeguntersville.org or scan this QR code.

FISHING

Guntersville is serious about fishing! Ranked #7 of the Best Southeastern Bass Lakes in 2022 by Bassmaster magazine, Guntersville is a regular stop on Bassmaster and Major League Fishing tournament tours. Lake Guntersville served as the fishery for the 50th Anniversary of the Bassmaster Classic in March 2020. This was the third time the lake was used as the fishery for The Classic.

The area offers multiple public boat launches around the lake with easy ramp access and parking as well as clear shoreline for bank fishing. Along with bass, other popular fish include crappie, bluegill, sauger, and catfish.

STATE PARKS

Marshall County is home to three beautiful state parks. The Lake Guntersville State Park, located seven miles from downtown Guntersville, offers camping and glamping, a hotel and conference center with a restaurant featuring breathtaking bluff views, lakeside cabins, and remodeled mountain chalets. The State Park also provides visitors an 18-hole championship golf course, sandy beach area, pool, and a zipline course. An extensive trail system of 36 miles of hiking and biking trails fits a variety of fitness levels.

Cathedral Caverns and Buck's Pocket State Parks are located less than 25 miles from Guntersville. Cathedral Caverns, a 14-acre underground world, is home to the world's largest cavern entrance, stalagmite and stalagmite forest, and frozen waterfall. They now offer four rental cabins as well as a primitive campsite to extend your enjoyment of the park. Buck's Pocket State Park is a unique canyon covering over 2,000 acres. Buck's Pocket offers a recently renovated campground along with a primitive campsite, picnic areas, hiking trails, and ATV trails.

GOLFING

You can't beat the view from the Guntersville area golf courses. Gunter's Landing features an 18-hole, 6,883 yards, Par 72 scenic golf course with beautiful bent grass greens that is consistently ranked among the top courses in Alabama and the US. Every hole provides a new and exciting experience.

The Lake Guntersville State Park's Eagle's Nest golf course is nestled among the pines at the top of Taylor Mountain. Offering magnificent lake views along with elevation changes from gentle slopes to rolling hills, these links are a must-play for any golfer. This course is 18 holes, 6,785 yards, Par 72 and open 7 days a week, weather permitting.

BIRDING TRAIL

The Lake Guntersville area is known as a safe haven for the American Bald Eagle, with an eagle family establishing a nest along the waterline of Sunset Drive in 2020 and bringing thousands of visitors to the area hoping to catch a glimpse. The pair hatched another eaglet in 2024. The Lake Guntersville State Park offers Eagle Awareness Weekends in January and February, which is prime time for eagle watching. Visit alapark.com for more details on this program.

Guntersville is also home to three sites on the North Alabama Birding Trail. At these Guntersville sites you might see Redbreasted Mergansers, Lesser Scaup and Gadwalls, as well as Common Loons, and Hooded and Red-necked Grebes. Other species to look for during the year include Doublecrested Cormorant, Osprey, and the Bald Eagle, all which nest nearby.

HYDROFEST

Marshall County Tourism & Sports has brought boat racing back to the lake with Guntersville Lake HydroFest. The first unlimited hydroplane race was held in Guntersville in 1963; modern-day boat racing showcases jet-engine boats and record speeds. For more details on HydroFest, visit explorelakeguntersville.com.

MOUNTAIN VALLEY ARTS COUNCIL

The Mountain Valley Arts Council (MVAC) is dedicated to the advancement of the arts in and around Marshall County. MVAC hosts many events throughout the year, such as concerts during the spring and fall, ARTS Spark Camp, an arts camp for students during the summer; as well as a children's art initiative. MVAC also offers art exhibits encompassing a wide variety of subjects, art workshops, and "art talks" featuring artisans based throughout the area. During the Christmas season, they also offer a holiday art market. Visit mvacarts.org to view upcoming concerts, exhibits, and workshop info.

THE WHOLE BACKSTAGE THEATRE

Theater enthusiasts will marvel at The Whole Backstage Theatre, North Alabama's oldest community theater. This all-volunteer non-profit organization is a vital part of the city's artistic community, creating an atmosphere of camaraderie and fun.

The Whole Backstage presents plays and musicals throughout the year, offering something for everyone's taste. The 2024-2025 season brings The Diary of Anne Frank; Matilda: the Musical; The Play That Goes Wrong; and Fiddler on the Roof.

Visit wholebackstage.com for details.

GUNTERSVILLE MUSEUM

Located in the historic rock armory at 1215 Rayburn Avenue, the Guntersville Museum has seen much prosperity over the past 30 years. It has amassed a large art and artifact collection that provides a unique vantage point on not just Guntersville's rich history but also the culture of the region.

The museum also hosts many special events, exhibits, and fundraisers. Its purpose is to preserve our history, inform visitors and citizens, and promote art and culture in the area. One especially popular exhibit is the annual Festival of Trees in December, which showcases unique Christmas trees decorated from groups throughout the county. Admission is free.

Dining & Shopping

The Guntersville area offers a variety of unique dining and shopping opportunities with small-town courtesy and friendly service and is home to the county's first craft brewery. Guntersville is home to a variety of locally-owned businesses, department stores, and large retailers plus a charming and active downtown area featuring gifts, clothing, and antiques shops. Downtown Guntersville is also home to a luxury spa offering therapeutic soaks, facials, massage therapy, and other rejuvenating treats. The City Harbor Development, located at the northernmost point of the peninsula, offers additional lakefront entertainment, dining, and retail opportunities.

Hungry? Whether you're looking for a succulent steak, fresh seafood, or farm-to-table fine dining, or a more laid-back bar and grill or southern homestyle cooking experience, area restaurants are sure to offer something to suite everyone's taste. And don't miss out on the seasonal farmers' market from April to October.

Sports & Recreation

The City's Parks and Recreation Department provides quality programs, services, and facilities for the public. Its goal is to offer something for every citizen of Guntersville and to reach out to all age groups, interests, and physical abilities with rewarding recreational opportunities.

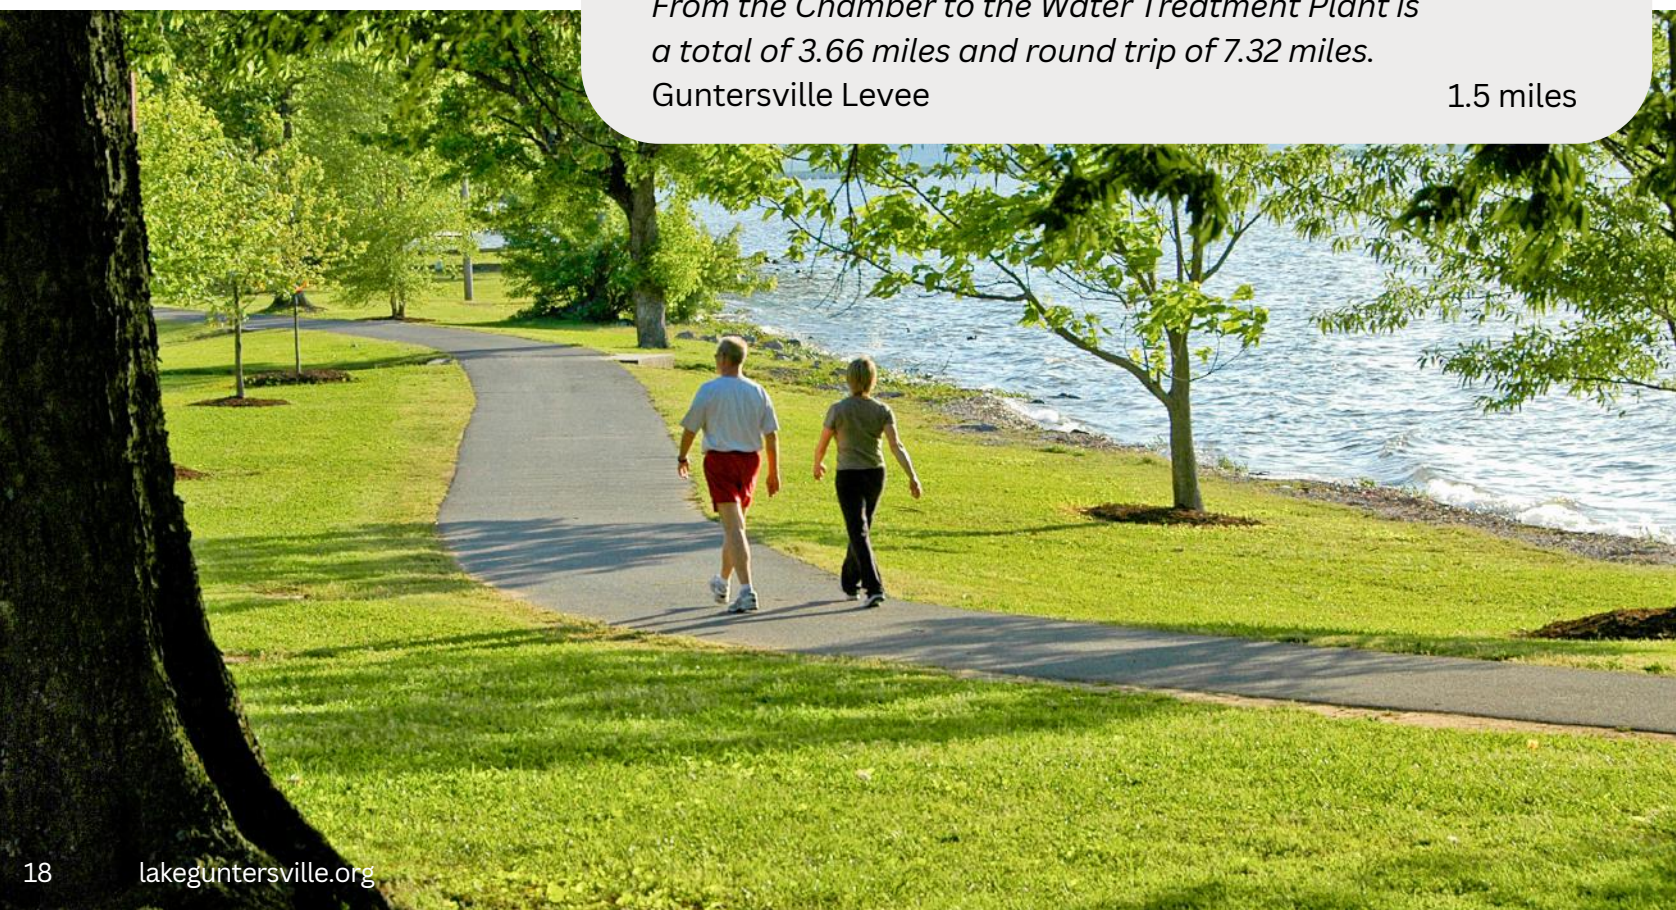

The Parks and Recreation Department maintains over 5 miles of walking and biking trails along the lake. The trails begin at the chamber of Commerce, follow Lurleen B. Wallace Drive, continue along Sunset Drive, and loop around at Willow Beach Road. Multiple pavilions and picnic areas along the trail are available for family reunions, birthday parties, and more. To reserve these pavilions, contact Parks and Recreation at 256-571-7590.

The levee, a gravel walkway along the southern portion of Guntersville, offers an additional 1.5 miles of gravel trail with beautiful lake views.

Youth sports and programs are an important division. In 2023 and 2024, the rec center gym and ball fields underwent a major renovation in order to better serve the community. Basketball, baseball, softball, soccer, tennis, and swimming are just some of the programs offered. Classes offered for adults include dance, computer, crocheting and knitting, pottery, karate, and fitness.

Guntersville Parks and Recreation Department maintains baseball and softball fields, tennis and pickleball courts, meeting rooms, a gym, an Olympic-size pool, and playgrounds among its facilities. These are numerous city parks totaling 175 acres along the lake. A beach and designated swimming area, public fishing pier, and boat launches are also maintained by the department.

Another popular attraction is Every Child's Playground, located next to Civitan Park. The lakeside location and easy accessibility for people of all abilities make this a destination for parents and children alike. Adjacent to the Rec Center is a lakeside Senior Citizens' Center. This multipurpose facility offers nutrition and recreation programs, educational activities, health screenings, arts and crafts, and transportation for senior citizens.

Business Lives on the Lake

A variety of service industries make up Guntersville's business community. While manufacturing serves as the largest employment sector, retail and services provide 50 percent of jobs in the area. The tourism and hospitality industry appeal to entrepreneurs, and Guntersville is an ideal locale for small businesses.

CITY HARBOR DEVELOPMENT

The City Harbor Development brings a variety of dining, shopping, entertainment, and short-term lodging options in a stunning lakeside location. Adjacent to beautiful downtown Guntersville, visitors can dock their boat, enjoy a meal, and walk through downtown exploring just some of what the area has to offer. City Harbor also offers an event space and condo rentals with incredible views spanning the lake.

History

John Gunter, who came from the Carolinas in 1785, was the first white person to settle in what is now Marshall County. He became a “squatter” at a salt deposit on the south bank of the Tennessee River near the present-day Veterans' Memorial Bridge, and this site became known as Gunter's Landing. John Gunter married Chief Bushyhead's daughter Ghe-go-he-li (later Anglicized to Catherine), a Cherokee princess, and they raised a large family. Gunter's Landing grew rapidly because of its geographic location on the Tennessee River and the Gunter's good relationship with the Native Americans. This resulted in John Gunter amassing a fortune in land, money, and slaves. The Gunter children became instrumental leaders who were prominent in both the Native American Territory and the surrounding area.

Among the Gunter descendants was the noted humorist, Will Rogers, whose grandmother was a Cherokee Indian. Rogers' family went westward with the Great Migration. Many Native Americans, primarily Cherokees, inhabited the Guntersville area until well after 1836, when Marshall County was formed. It was ironic though, that Gunter's Landing, which had been a site of harmony and cooperation between Native Americans and whites, became a port of embarkation for shipping Native Americans to the West. The Guntersville Museum has dedicated a gallery to local Native American history, in memory of the Cherokee and Creeks who were evicted from their homes and forced to travel the “Trail of Tears.”

The first educational facility was a mission school built by the Presbyterians for the Native Americans about two miles south of the river. This school, “Old Missionary,” stood on the old Creek Path that the Native Americans used to travel to their hunting grounds. Noted teachers at this school were Dick and Catherine Brown, who were half Cherokee. Mr. Brown also acted as interpreter for Sequoia, the famous Native American who developed the Cherokee alphabet.

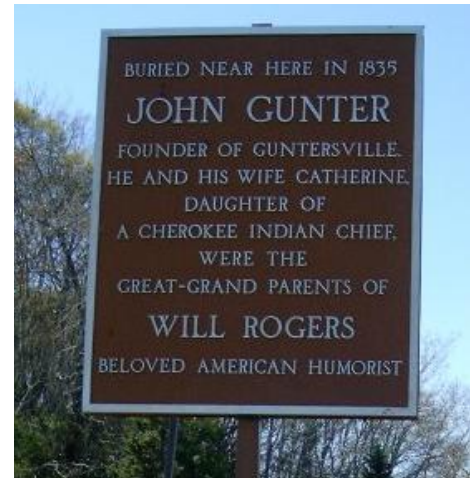

Another man who played a major role in the city's history was Louis Wyeth, a young lawyer from Harrisburg, PA. Wyeth, who came to Guntersville in 1837 (the year after John Gunter died) was responsible for developing the town and establishing the county seat. Through his efforts, the Alabama Legislature incorporated Guntersville on February 3, 1848.

Settlers came into the area slowly during this period. They were primarily of Scottish, Irish, and English descent, migrating south through the Carolinas, Tennessee, and Kentucky. Many of these settlers were hard-working people who did not have strong convictions about the "War Between the States." Nevertheless, they were greatly affected by it because the war hit Guntersville very hard. The town was burned so much from Yankee shelling that only seven structures were left standing: the Guntersville Hotel, courthouse, jail, school, Masonic Hall, and two homes.

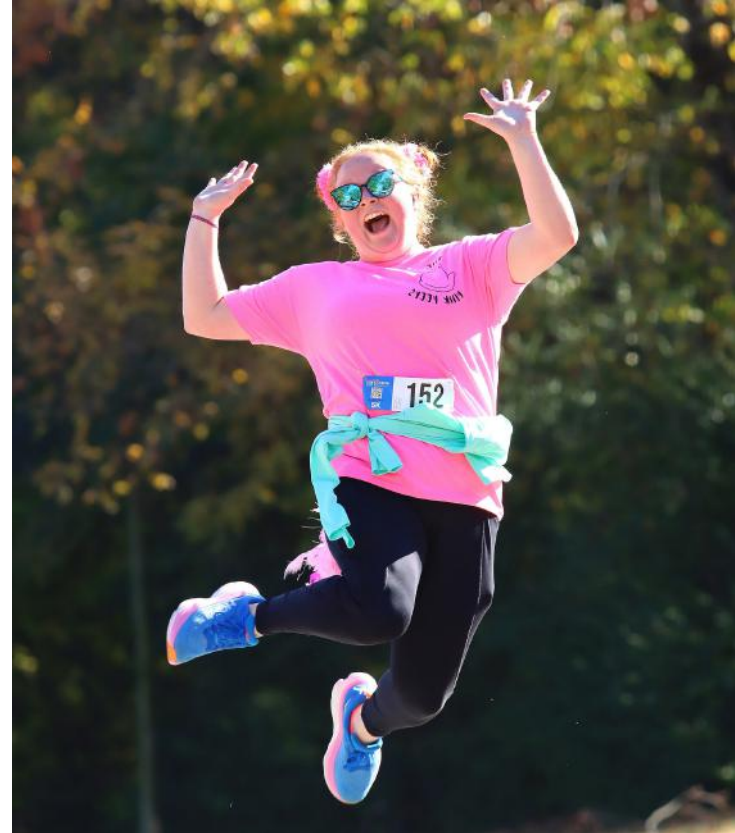

One of Guntersville's most illustrious citizens, John Allan Wyeth, had been a prisoner of the war when he was only 17. After the war, he farmed a while before going to medical school. He practiced in Guntersville and then went to New York City for further training. Gaining a reputation as one of the foremost surgeons in the world, he was called in to consult when England's Queen Victoria required an operation. Dr. Wyeth founded one of New York's largest hospitals. In the 1880s, he returned to Guntersville to practice medicine, write, and help the city in its development. An outstanding author of both medical and history books, Dr. Wyeth is the only person from Marshall County who is included in the Alabama Hall of Fame in Montgomery. His statue stands on the Capitol grounds of Montgomery.

After the Civil War, Guntersville's growth as a river town began. Then in 1892, the much sought-after railroad arrived in Guntersville, and with it came an era of growth on many fronts. Another major change took place when Guntersville had an influx of people who came to build the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) Dam. In 1939, when TVA completed the Guntersville Dam and filled the reservoirs, Guntersville became a peninsula city surrounded by 69,000 acres of water. The city then became an important grain shipping terminal and a port for the distribution of automobiles. In later years, Guntersville became a center for recreation, and gained national recognition as the "Powerboat Capital of the South." When the first powerboat race was held in 1939, about 60,000 people converged to see the new lake and witness the Dixie Motor Races. At that time, it was the largest crowd to ever assemble in North Alabama.

Community & Worship

Guntersville offers a variety of volunteer opportunities. There are civic clubs and non-profit organizations focusing on needs throughout the area. If you are new to the area and looking to get connected with a local project, or if you are a local looking to give back to the community, volunteering is wonderful way to become involved.

WORSHIP

Area churches offer residents the opportunity to become involved in the community while providing a strong commitment to an individual's spiritual growth. Many of these provide in-person and online programs, classes, and events for all ages, from children to mature adults. There are also opportunities to participate in a number of outreach and social ministry programs.

A close-up photograph of a surgeon's hands operating a robotic surgical arm. The hands are positioned on the control handles of the arm, which is part of a larger robotic system. The background is slightly blurred, showing the metallic and white components of the robotic arm and the blue screen of a monitor.

Robotic Precision.

Robotic-Assisted Surgery is driving greater accuracy at Marshall Medical.

Even the best surgeon can use a helping hand — especially a robotic-assisted arm. With 3D Hi-Def precision, robotic surgery is performed under the control of a skilled surgeon. Benefits include less blood loss and discomfort, shorter hospital stays and faster recovery. That's why Marshall Medical is pleased to introduce Mako SmartRobotics for Orthopedic procedures, and the da Vinci Surgical System for Urology, Gynecology, Colorectal and General Surgery procedures. With our commitment to quality and close-to-home convenience, robotic surgery means you're always in good hands with Marshall Medical.
